Darren Walsh

Runner up in the 2011 Laughing Horse New Act of the Year, Darren Walsh's silly happy-go-lucky style has been compared to Harry Hill, with an act that combines surreal nonsense and snippets of daft songs.

"A loud dose of healthy surreality that keeps you on yours toes and at the back of your seats. Part man, part cartoonist, part acapella musician – there's something for everyone" - The List

Lindsay Sharman

The Edinburgh Fringe 2011 saw her in the PBH stand-up show 'Giants of Comedy', rated four stars by The List and Three Weeks, in which she was described as 'utterly charming', 'very funny', and 'Michael McIntyre on a sugar overdose.'

Funny Women 2011 - Finalist.

James Gill

A former newspaper columnist, James has also written for BBC Radio Five Live, Channel 4 Radio's The Weekly Show and Jimmy Carr.

"One of the best acts on the circuit. He immediately captivates the audience and has them roaring with uncontrollable laughter. You never want his set to end" - Sarah Isles, Scream Lounge

Francis Foster

Francis doesn't have any information about himself on the internet, the twat. But I've seen him loads of times and he's really funny.

"He looks like Ben Elton but he's much less irritating" - Leo Kears

Leo Kears

"Leo Kears is a strong performer and delivers a good set with a good mix of material. He makes his offensive material is amiable and unthreatening. Gets an atmosphere going and keeps this up." Fringe Report
